FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LIGHTING DESIGN CENTER NAMED SHOWROOM OF THE YEAR

During Lightovation – Dallas International Lighting Show

TINTON FALLS, NJ, USA / June 26, 2017 / -- The Lighting Design Center, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Warshauer Electric Supply, a New Jersey-based electrical wholesaler, has been named Showroom of the Year by Dallas Market Center and Lighting & Décor Magazine at the 8th annual Showroom of the Year Awards during the opening night reception at the June Lightovation – Dallas International Lighting Show.

Lightovation is the largest residential lighting trade event in North America, uniting leading global lighting manufacturers with thousands of lighting retailers and other businesses devoted to the sale of lighting fixtures and systems, portable lamps, ceiling fans, lighting controls and home automation products.

“We are extremely proud to be named Showroom of the Year,” said Jim Dunn, Executive Vice President. “Winning this award, in addition to being named the 2016 Lutron 5-Star Showroom, is true validation to all our hard work, energy, effort and resources spent to bring our Lighting Design Center to where it is today. It was truly an entire team effort - from our management team, marketing staff, lighting designers, Vo-tech employees, to our fully committed manufacturer partners and their representatives. Everyone bought in 100% and are all equally responsible for our success.”

Winners are profiled online at www.lightinganddecormag.com and in the August issue of Lighting & Décor. The website also includes details about all 2017 Showroom of the Year finalists and will have information about the 2018 call for entries and nominations in November.
